

Meet MEL

at the Library of Michigan!

Who's MEL? "Virtually" the most informative friend you'll ever have! MEL stands for the Michigan Electronic Library, an Internet website sponsored by the Library of Michigan that leads you to all kinds of interesting facts. Located at mel.org on the World Wide Web, MEL is your doorway to magazine databases, library catalogs, and ebooks.

Best of all, MEL provides a huge collection of websites that have been preselected and evaluated by librarians for accuracy and suitable material. It's perfect for students to use as a quick and easy research tool. There's even a section devoted to age-appropriate websites for kids.

Anybody anywhere at any time can use MEL. Visit the Library of Michigan or your own local library for more information about MEL. Or give MEL a "click" at mel.org and introduce yourself to this wonderful website. You'll be glad you did.

Visit or call the Library of Michigan at 517-373-1300.
